

University of Michigan's Second Annual

Reading, Writing, Swingin', Smilin'...

Hello! My name is Timmy, and I'll be your program guide for the K-grams Kids-Fair. Today is exciting because this event brings so many of us together for a day of learning! Join the fun as you help create memorable experiences for everyone involved!

Welcome!

First of all, I would like to thank each and every individual who has been involved with our program. Today's festivities are just a small part of a continuous process where we engage with communities near and far from us. Whether you have been one of the thousands of pen pals who has developed a lasting relationship with another or have come to Kids-Fair for the first time with the program, we are thrilled to have you here! As always, creating an atmosphere where students can learn from each other remains at the core of K-grams and all of its programs.

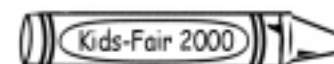

Today, we have the unique opportunity to share with each other a plethora of knowledge while discovering the fun that learning can offer. We hope that the experiences you have here at Kids-Fair and throughout the year in K-grams will continue to stay with you. You may log onto our website afterwards to find out about this program, share a story about your favorite activity with a parent, check out another service opportunity on campus, or (for our younger guests) might just be inspired to go to college in about 10-12 years! On behalf of the entire Programming Council and our Hall Heads, I welcome you to join in the excitement and learn a few new things yourself -- from the big kids, the little kids, and everyone in between. :)

K-grams brings our communities together in many ways!

The mission of K-grams is to establish a strong community of learning for a wide range of university and elementary students, staff, and families by developing positive relationships and experiences that extend beyond the classroom.

Monthly letter exchanges -- All of our 1,000+ pen pals share their experiences and learn about each other's lives on a bi-weekly basis. College students write and deposit their letters in their residence halls, where the Swing Kids collect and package all of their thoughts. Then, the Letter Head delivers the letters in person to their school and eagerly awaits the response back!

Regular classroom projects -- Project Heads initiate educational projects that bring college kids into the classroom to work side-by-side with the younger kids. Student groups also participate in "Swing Sessions" where they demonstrate their skills with the kids. Past projects have ranged from learning about leaves to carving pumpkins to doing science experiments.

BookMARK (Mentoring and Reading with Kids) -- This first-year program successfully pairs up young readers with college students for reading time and other necessary activities determined by the teacher. The program runs each day in various K-grams classrooms and participation is open to the entire University community.

International Interaction -- U of M Study Abroad pen pals in Spain, Germany, and Russia correspond with each of their own classrooms, sharing their travel experiences with their pen pals.

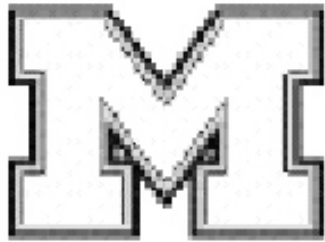

Box Tops for Education -- U of M students actively participate in collecting "Box Tops" off of General Mills Cereal boxes in order to raise money for their schools' use. So far, this initiative and various school supplies charity drives have allowed us to raise thousands of dollars for our pals.

These are just a small portion of what K-grams has to offer. All of these programs work to build stronger relationships within our community and leave smiles on the faces of our participants. :)
